Dear Chairman Rogers, Representative Lowey, Chairman Young, and Representative Visclosky:

On behalf of the thousands of brain tumor patients, caregivers, survivors, and family members we serve throughout the United States, I write to urge you to maintain funding in Fiscal Year 2014 for the Congressionally Directed Medical Research Programs and, in particular, for the Peer Reviewed Cancer Research Program (PRCRP) and its pediatric brain tumor research program. The PRCRP is funded through the Department of Defense budget and received $15 million last year.

Brain tumors are the second leading cause of cancer-related death in children under the age of 20. This year alone, 4,300 children in the United States will be diagnosed with a primary brain tumor.¹ Brain tumor patients in the U.S. face a five-year relative survival rate of just 34%.²

The PRCRP is an important program in the fight against pediatric brain tumors. It provides grants to researchers investigating ways to treat brain tumors in children in ways that reduce adverse effects to the developing brain. The brain tumor community and military families affected by cancer need advances in scientific progress that the PRCRP provides.

Your continued investment in this program will mean more hope for better treatments for children living with a brain tumor today, and for those who will be diagnosed tomorrow.

Thank you for considering our request.
