Take Action for Glioblastoma Awareness Day

Today is Glioblastoma (GBM) Awareness Day — a day to shine a light on GBM, the most common, complex, treatment-resistant, and deadliest type of brain cancer. Members of Congress have already been taking action to recognize the importance of this day. You can take action today by thanking your senators for unanimously passing a resolution in support of the day and encouraging your representative to sign on in support.

TAKE ACTION

Register for In-District Meetings

Congress may be taking their annual break for August recess, but the brain tumor community is kicking into high gear! Join us this August for virtual in-district meetings, where we'll follow up on our success from this year's Head to the Hill and ask Congress for funding for the National Cancer Institute and Peer Reviewed Cancer Research Program. Your participation can help us work toward a cure and better quality of life for patients.

We had our most successful year of in-district meetings ever in 2021, and we need your help to make it even better this year. You can start by registering today! Reach out to our team at advocacy@braintumor.org with any questions.
