OUR WHY

As our community grows, so does our impact. We need your help to continue supporting those affected by brain tumors and their families. At the National Brain Tumor Society, we offer a variety of events, each designed to create awareness, raise funds, and foster a supportive community.

“When I was diagnosed in 2012, it was the first annual NBTS walk in Los Angeles. My family started Team Nate-Dawg and even though I was in the hospital and unable to attend, the community showed up. It was so inspiring for me to see people supporting me from afar.

I was only the 5th patient from Children's Hospital in Los Angeles to be part of a clinical trial stem cell transplant. This consisted of a stem cell harvest followed by a month in the Bone Marrow Transplant Unit of the hospital. My own stem cells were harvested, stored, and put back (transplanted) back into my body after receiving intensive chemotherapy.

The chemotherapy that I received was so intense it left me with burns throughout my body. This was by far the hardest treatment to recover from, but this is what saved my life, so I am forever grateful for the opportunity to be a part of it.

Since 2012, my community and I have raised close to $200,000 for the National Brain Tumor Society and we will not stop.”
